Produced by Christine Leslie, Executive Director of Peninsula Ballet Theatre (PBT), the Bay Area's second oldest ballet and dance company, the Peninsula International Dance Festival 2023 participants have been thoughtfully selected and invited by PBT's Artistic Director Gregory Amato working closely with Zenón Barrón, revered dance ethnologist and artistic director of Ensembles Ballet Folklórico de San Francisco; Carlos Carvajal, former Co-Artistic Director of the San Francisco Ethnic Dance Festival and Peninsula Ballet Theatre Artistic Director Emeritus; and Charlotte Moraga, artistic director of the esteemed Chitresh Das Institute/Chitresh Das Youth Company.

Christine Leslie commented, "Last year we launched the Peninsula International Dance Festival and it was enthusiastically embraced by the Bay Area. It's an exciting new initiative and part of our expanded mission to connect with more community residents on the greater Peninsula. Six years ago, we began exploring the addition of hip-hop to our classical ballet offerings and it has been a huge success, attracting a new audience to our theater. Presenting an international dance festival is an extension of the many diverse dance classes that are offered weekly in our five studios at the Peninsula Ballet Theatre center. This is also our way of connecting with and proudly showcasing the extraordinary world dance and music talent in the Bay Area. We're enthusiastic about the future and look forward to sharing this latest iteration of the festival with the public. No passports needed; no TSA security lines to go through: travel the world with the Peninsula International Dance Festival."

Carlos Carvajal said, "This newly imagined world dance and music festival is truly a Bay Areas cultural jewel which expresses in dance and song exactly what our society is desiring so intensely at this time – equity, diversity and inclusion. We're delighted to present this season's dance companies in a stage production that captures the joy and passion of the common language of dance and music."

Tickets for the Peninsula International Dance Festival 2023 are priced at $60, $45 and $35.
